

Business Indicts Mild Drinkers

The liquor traffic has begun a systematic nation-wide campaign "For Temperance and Against Prohibition."

It opposes drunkenness and advocates drinking.

This is a subtle, artful plan, that will deceive thousands, and that is its object.

Their claim is that moderate drinking of liquor is harmless. This claim would have been sustained fifty and even twenty years ago, but in the light of modern scientific research and investigation, the claim is untrue.

The greatest temperance fight today is over moderate drinking. Men have ceased to war over drunkenness, for everybody is against that form of vice, and the drunkard is dismissed from the modern world of thought, as a nonentity, except as the Christian stoops to pick up the wreck.

The statement of the Life Insurance Companies' Bureau of Mortality is that they divide moderate drinkers into two classes; first, those who drink one glass of whisky or two glasses of beer daily; second, men who drink more than the above amounts, but not to excess, but the number of deaths in the second class is 50 per cent greater than in the first class. What a warning!

The Board of Actuaries, representing 43 great American life insurance companies, declared last year that moderate drinkers are "decidedly unsafe risks," and that the moderate drinker sacrifices from 10 to 13 years of his life. Is not that a sufficient indictment against moderate drinking?

The best organized railroad companies are fighting moderate drinking. The great Pennsylvania road refuses to employ even moderate drinkers of alcoholic liquors.

The great manufacturing establishments of America are opposing moderate drinking, and through their welfare departments are teaching their thousands of employees total abstinence.

The athletic world that is developing physical giants who will succeed in the great field of athletic sports, is opposing moderate drinking and requiring total abstinence.

Science with all its modern study to preserve the normal health and strength of man and to prolong life to the limit, is making war upon moderate drink as the greatest physical enemy of the race.

The modern medical world has declared through such able physicians as Dr. Smith Williams and Dr. Howard Kelley, who stand at the head of that great profession, that there is no amount of alcohol so small that it can be taken into the body without injury to the drinker. Alcohol has even been banished recently from the medical world as a remedy.

These are not the statements of excited reformers and long-haired fanatics, as the liquor men so often declare, but rather the judgment, cool and deliberate, after years of investigation, of the world's most practical thinkers.—The American Issue.

Farm Notes.

Issued by the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

Windmill vs Gasoline Engine

It costs four and one-half times as much to pump water by means of a gasoline engine as it does by a windmill. According to data collected at the Nebraska College of Agriculture, the cost of pumping 100 barrels of water by windmill is 15 cents, while by an engine it costs 68 cents when gasoline is figured at 18 cents a gallon. The windmill will last 24 years, while the engine will last but 12 years.

Admitting that the gasoline engine is at the farmer's service whether the wind blows or not, the usefulness of the windmill can be greatly increased by using larger wheels and small pump cylinders, as well as by providing storage tanks and removing obstructions to the wind.

The wind blows more hours per month than the year at a velocity of from 6 to 15 miles an hour than at any other rate, and the windmill should be large in order that the slower rates may be taken advantage of. When forcing water into a reservoir, the agricultural college suggests a 10-foot wheel and a 24-inch pump cylinder. If the well is shallow, a larger cylinder should be used.

Remedies for Lice on Hogs

Of the remedies commonly used for lice on hogs, the College of Agriculture says that crude oil is probably the cheapest and the most effective, as it kills not only the lice but the nits as well at one application. The most convenient method of applying is by means of a hog oiler, of which there are several good types. These have the advantage of being always ready and need little attention except keeping oil supplied. The best type of oiler is one that enables the pig to get the oil to all parts of the body. The oil can also be applied with a sprayer, a spray pump, or a broom or brush. If there is any indication of skin disease, the part should be scrubbed with a broom or brush so as to get the oil well into the skin. Where crude oil is used it will be noticed that the skin and hair are improved in appearance. Where any of the coal tar dips are used, at least two applications should be made at intervals of seven days. Where the floors of the pens or sheds are of dirt, a liberal application of oil will keep down the dust as well as aid in killing lice.

How About the Farmers' Institute?

Farmers' institutes for the coming season are to be limited to one-day sessions the same as last year, but two speakers being furnished for each point. A point desiring a second day will be furnished speakers, if available, at its own expense. However, farmers wishing to schedule a four-day short course may secure it by paying the local expenses. The four-day meeting is supported largely by federal funds, while the farmers' institutes are supported mainly by state funds. Information concerning either a farmers' institute or a short course may be had of the Extension Service, University Farm, Lincoln.

Information on Water Systems

When installing a water system on the farm, the water supply for the house is frequently overlooked; only the stock is supplied. The College of Agriculture says that water may frequently be had in the house with a small additional expense. Farmers desiring a sketch of a simple water system suited to their individual needs may secure information upon application to the Agricultural Engineering Department of the College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

Books on Rural Life

A list of 21 books on rural community life, dealing with its problems and their solution, was prepared by the College of Agriculture for the pastors, teachers, and other rural life workers in attendance at the recent Rural Life Conference at the University Farm. The list may be had by writing to the Extension Service, College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

Standard Poultry Weights

Did it ever occur to you what is the proper weight of a pullet, hen, cockerel, or cock of chickens, ducks, geese, or turkeys of the different breeds? These weights have been tabulated by the Poultry Section of the College of Agriculture at Lincoln and may be had upon application.

LOYALTY REWARDED THE REBEL DOOMED

Two Examples Given Us in the Past, Says Pastor Russell.

Precept illustrated by Example—God's Great Lessons For Men and For Angels—Satan and Christ—The Great Rebel and His Failure—God's Loyal Son and His Victory—Both Are Held Up to Us For Examples—One Pictures What God Hates; the Other Pictures What God Approves—The Penalty Upon the One Illustrates God's Provision For All of His Disposition—The Reward of the Other Illustrates God's Love and Blessing Toward All the Followers of Jesus.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Toledo, Ohio, April 13.—Pastor Russell is here today, addressing Bible students. We report one of his addresses from the text: "Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time."—1 Peter 5:6.

The Pastor declared that the Bible everywhere holds up the Lord Jesus Christ as the glorious Pattern of what is most pleasing to the Heavenly Father, to be copied by all desiring God's favor. He reminded his hearers that certain steps are necessary before any can come into that favor, and properly be called God's children. Both our Lord and His Apostles make this point very clear.

Very few have God's favor at the present time, said the Pastor. In God's due time, however, all shall be brought to a knowledge of Messiah, and privileged through Him to enjoy everlasting life. But what is coming and what is here are two different things. No one has authority to make the Narrow Way a Broad Way, or to say that many will find it, when the Scriptures declare, "Few there be that find it."

The Pastor showed clearly that his text related only to the consecrated few who, during this Age, heard and accepted the invitation to become footstep followers of Jesus. These have their sins forgiven as a result of faith in the precious blood of Christ, and of consecration to do God's will. These have the Redeemer as their Advocate.

To These Our Text Applies.

These are exhorted to come boldly to the Throne of Heavenly Grace, to obtain mercy and to find grace to help in every time of need. These may know that their prayers are always heard. The exhortations of the Apostles are to these alone—not to the world.

In our context, the Apostle holds up the Lord Jesus as the great Pattern of humility. St. Paul tells us that our Lord was rich, yet in obedience to the Father's will He laid aside His riches and became poor. He divested Himself of His spirit conditions and took instead human conditions.

From being above angels, He willingly took a nature and place "a little lower than angels." He did this, knowing that it was only a preliminary step, and that others of self-denial and suffering would follow. A man—Adam—had sinned, and had involved a race in his death sentence. Only an unconquered man could redeem him. It was for this purpose that Jesus left His glory, and was "found in fashion as a man." He was holy, harmless, undefiled. Otherwise, he could not have been the Redeemer.

At thirty years of age, our Lord went forth, declaring the Message which He knew would be misunderstood—the Message that He was the Sin-Offender, and that as the result of His sacrifice, the Millennial Kingdom would come, which would bless all the families of the earth. The Jews were not ready for that Message. As the Scriptures foretold, they crucified Him—ignorantly.—1 Corinthians 2:8.

The Rewards of Humility and Loyalty.

According to St. Paul, the Father set before our Lord a joy as a reward for His sacrifice. The details of that joy we may infer to be: (1) The joy of the Father's smile of approval. (2) The joy of bringing many sons to glory. (3) The joy of restoring mankind to their original perfection. (4) The joy of an exaltation to a still higher station than His former one. See Hebrews 12:3-5.

Since His exaltation, our Redeemer awaits the glorious time when all foes of righteousness shall be brought low, and righteousness exalted. But first must come the completion of the Church of Christ. Then will follow the blessing of all mankind.

Satan's Course in Contrast.

Notice the contrast between Satan's course and our Lord's. Instead of humbling himself and willingly doing what was pleasing to God, Satan took the opposite course. He was proud, haughty, and sought to exalt himself. Lucifer was rich before he became Satan, the Adversary. Yet he was not so rich as the Logos, through whom Divine energy operated in the creation.

Mark well the course of pride, which led to sin, and will ultimately lead to Satan's destruction. Mark well the course of Jesus, which led through humility to the highest glory. Which example shall we follow? What folly it would be to permit pride to gain a place in our hearts!
